Introducing the Eleven New Best Practices Receiving Global Recognition Through the UNIVANTS of Healthcare Excellence Awards

The UNIVANTS of Healthcare Excellence program, in partnership with IFCC, Abbott and 6 other prestigious partner organizations are proud to announce 11 best practices receiving recognition from the 2022 UNIVANTS of Healthcare Excellence awards. Now in its 5th year, the UNIVANTS program recognizes the brilliant work of integrated clinical care teams who have unified to achieve measurably better health outcomes, and 2022 was no exception. Across 11 best practices, measurable improvements occurred across disease states, including cervical cancer, diabetes, COVID-19, addiction, brain injury, transplantation, and more. Recognized teams varied by geography and by institution-type with teams spanning health systems, a non-profit organization and the National Basketball Association.

With 3 top global winners, 3 teams of distinction, and 5 teams of achievement (see table below), the breadth and depth of outcomes associated with the 2022 UNIVANTS best practices span patient experience, reduced mortality, decreased healthcare costs, decreased length of stay, and more. To learn more about these best practices and/or the award program itself, please visit www.UnivantsHCE.com.

Interested in recognition through the UNIVANTS of Healthcare Excellence award program? Start preparing your application now - applications for the 2023 UNIVANTS of Healthcare Excellence awards are possible beginning Aug 1st.
